Liberal Govt. In Quebec is Badly Defeated

Union Nationales Sweep The Province Monday

After being in power for 40 years, the Liberal government in the province of Quebec was badly defeated. In the general election last Monday.

The opposition, which was made up of Conservatives and insurgent Liberals, by the name of Union Nationales, swept the province in one of the greatest landslide in the history of that province.

The standing at present is:
Union Nationale 76
Liberals 14

None of the several other candidates who ran under different political party names were elected. These were 12 Independent Liberals, 4 Independent Union Nationales, 2 Right Conservatives and 1 Independent Conservative, 3 Communists, 1 C.P. Labor and 1 People's Candidate.

Maurice Duplessis, who was leader of the Conservative Opposition, is now the leader of the Union National Party and will be the next premier of Quebec.

The result of last Monday's election means only three changes in government since Confederation in 1867. Conservatives were in power from 1867 to 1897; the Liberals from 1897 to August 1936 and now the Union Nationales.

Seventeen men and boys who were going home from a political meeting at Louisville, Que. last Friday were instantly killed when the truck in which they were travelling, was struck by a C. P. R. train at a level crossing. Six died later and several others are in a critical condition. At another railway crossing near Blairmore, Alta., six people were instantly killed when their car was hit by a train. These two tragedies should be a fresh reminder for all car drivers to take every precaution when approaching a railway crossing.

Census Shows Town Population Now 990

All Towns in Province Show Slight Reduction

Results of the Quinquennial Census taken recently in the prairie provinces are now issued. It gives Redcliff's population as 990, Brook 695, Bassano 574. Redcliff's population at the last census was 1,192.

Only three towns in the province are larger than Redcliff. These are Clareholm, High River and Melrod.

Every town in the province shows about the same proportion of reduction since last census as does Redcliff.

Review of Wheat Situation in Canada

Prairie Wheat: Yield Around 200 Million Bushels

The consensus of opinion of crop observers is that Western Canada's wheat yield will be around 200 million bushels this year. Carryover figures total approximately 136 million bushels in all positions. This gives a total of 336 million bushels as the prospective supply in Canada (outside of the small winter wheat area in the east) for the current crop year.

Domestic requirements of wheat are always over 100 million bushels, and placing it at that figure leaves 236 million bushels available for export and carryover. If the carryover next year is reduced to 40 million bushels the amount left for export will be 196 million bushels. As the United States is expected to take 40 million bushels of this volume, 156 million bushels will be available for overseas exportations.

In view of the facts that world wheat production is down from last year, wet harvests in Europe are causing damage, Russia is suffering from drought, narrowed trade over last year reasonably be expected. It was reported about 245 million bushels last crop year and have a little trouble export of 166 million this crop year, especially as there will be no open competition until the first of next year.

Edmonton Council to Combat Strip Junction

Also Want Government to Help Defray Expenses

An injunction to restrain the city of Edmonton from accepting or dealing in the Alberta prosperity bonds was applied for in the supreme Court of Alberta last week end, and was granted.

The city council has empowered the Mayor and City clerk to take proper legal steps to have the injunction set aside and are asking the government to assist in defraying the expenses.

Good Time at Swimming Pool Here Last Friday

Program of Events was Enjoyed By The Spectators

There was a good attendance at the swimming pool last Friday evening for the program of aquatic sports put on that evening.

Competition for the several events was keen and gave the spectators a good idea of what the swimming pool is doing for the development of the young people along swimming lines.

The committee wishes to extend thanks to the merchants in town and in Medicine Hat for donating prizes for the different events and to the citizens who contributed at the gate and to the tag day. These added greatly to the proceeds of the event. As a result of the day the committee will clear in the neighborhood of $35.00. An amusing event of the evening was the demonstration of fancy swimming and diving by Messrs. Alex. Patterson and Frank Baird.

The following were the winners in the several events:

In the pram scramble Stanley Lenning picked up the greatest number of pennies.

Plans to Enlarge Irrigation District

Aberhart Suggests Plan From Tilley Eastward

Plans to extend the eastern irrigation district between Calgary and Medicine Hat by taking in an additional 50,000 acres on the east side of the project, which settlers from drought-stricken districts would be moved there after spending a week end in the southern part of the province.

On the basis of 160 acres each, some 300 settlers could be placed on the additional area.

Plans to Slaughter Poor Prairie Cattle

To Be Used as Tankage For Fertilizing Purpose

Officials of the prairie provinces are now in Ottawa in consultation with the federal government in connection with the drought problem and the cattle situation.

As regards the cattle situation in Alberta the plans being developed call for the slaughter in the abattoirs of about 100,000 head of poor cattle as "tankage" for fertilizer, and the government to the east of large numbers of feeders. The livestock men are most anxious to maintain their breeding stock intact however much the heads otherwise may be cut down. The normal marketing is placed at about $50,000 a year. Measures are also urged to regulate the price of feed in the face of reported evidence of speculation.

Tourist Purchases Subject to The Tax

Exception to Regular Customers From Sask. and B. C.

Purchases by tourists will be subject to the provincial 2 per cent tax according to new rulings issued by the sales tax branch of the provincial treasury department.

The matter had been in doubt for some time. The new ruling (therefore, is regarded as settling the question."

The only exceptions will be in the case of a person in business at an Alberta border post selling to regular customers in Sask., B. C. or the North West Territories, or in the case of articles shipped from this province direct to their destination outside the province.

Will Social Credit Help Bracken Gov't?

Turned They Will Solve Manitoba Problems

There are rumors now that the five Social Credit members in the Manitoba legislature will support Mr. Bracken in forming a new government. Although the rumors have been denied by C. C. Officials in Manitoba at least two elected members have conferred with Premier Aberhart.

It seems strange that candidates who criticized and condemned the system under the Bracken government, during his campaign, would help to get it back in power again, especially when the election helped to.

In a card from Mr. W. King, who is one of the Vimy pilgrims from here, he says: "France is giving the pilgrims a wonderful time of it. In fact so wonderful that many want to remain much about it. Suggestion For a Curling Rink in The Town

Meeting is called for Friday Tomorrow Evening

At a chance gathering of business men on the street, the other day, several discussions in connection with the movement of Social and sports conditions in town came up. Among others the question of having a curling rink was suggested in a few minutes the suggestion in a few minutes the suggestion became very popular and it was decided to make a move to see what could be done in this connection. With this end in view a meeting will be held in the legion reading room tomorrow, (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock when it is hoped that all business men and others interested will attend.

In the preliminary discussion it was found that a suitable place could be secured for the rink and that everything could be arranged to get it in good shape for very little cost. There is no game or pastime that is more conducive to civility and sociability than curling. And that is one thing our town needs. Of course, if you are interested in being at this meeting.

J. H. Bolton Appointed for the Balance of Limb

There was a busy time for the officials at the registration booth here last week-end as there was quite a rush at the finish.

Mr. Bolton has been appointed registrar for the balance of the time allowed for registration.

Cash

It was very early in the history of EATON'S that the principle and practice of buying and selling for Cash only was laid down. With certain exceptions we shall mention later, this is still the EATON'S way of doing business.

Today we still pay cash ourselves for our purchases, because by so doing we are able to buy to the very best advantage. And we confine our selling activities largely to the same basis for exactly the same reason—because Cash Merchandising offers the customer the lowest possible pricing on whatever she buys.

On certain items of furniture, furnishings and other equipment we do, as a convenience to customers, offer the terms of the EATON'S Budget Plan. But the Budget Plan prices are higher than the Cash Prices. They have to be, because it does cost more to sell merchandise "On Time." The alternative of paying Cash is always offered, however—and there is always a worth-while saving when you do!

Reasoning Power Of Birds

Shown In Many Ways Besides Building Of Nests

Everyone who examines a bird's nest must marvel at the exactness of the architecture and the thoroughness with which it is built. The question, birds must do a great deal of thinking about their homes, because they not only carefully choose the building material but design them according to their particular surroundings and the needs of protecting their families. There are many other ways, however, in which birds apparently exhibit reasoning power.

For example, "Our Dumb Animals," the interesting magazine published every month by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, points in the July issue why it is that woodpeckers, which are not nest eaters but insect and grub feeders, store acorns in the bark of pine trees.

When the acorns are placed in the bark they do not contain insects of any appreciable size, probably most of them only contain the eggs of insects which later hatch and develop into good-sized worms.

How do the birds know how long it will take for the worms to grow to eatable size? They undoubtedly do know this, for their actions prove it. After the acorns have been stored long enough for the worms to grow to full size the birds return, take the acorns out and crack them to get at the worms within, discarding any part of the kernels which may remain.

It is most interesting to watch the birds at work. They usually bring the acorns to the place where they will store them, select a crevice in the bark where they can store them and then they drill a hole through the bark close by. Then, when the hole is finished, they pick up the acorn and fix it firmly in the receptacle which they have prepared. Often the first trial is not satisfactory, and the hole must be drilled larger or deeper. It is often a case of "trial and error" and several trials are necessary to get the hole just right, for the acorn must fit snugly or the worms will fall out or be blown out by the wind.

We can only attribute this to the instinct placed in their little brains by the Creator of Life.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

In The Wilds Of Africa

Seaman Of An American Freightliner Loses Robbers Cruel Existence

There was something of the Robinson Crusoe about the seaman of the American freighter Robin Adair, which recently returned to America from that Africa via the Cape. On the last trip of the Adair, this man deserted the ship at Monrovia and to escape detection went into the interior to hide. He had no money and finding on his reporting his presence to the local authorities after the ship had sailed, that he had a very odd reception. He was returned to the wilds, the main articles in his pack being a small gun and a hammock.

As he was able to buy eggs at a dozen and fowls at 2d. each from friendly natives, he had no difficulty in feeding himself, and at night, to protect himself from the lions and other wild animals with the help of his hammock, he hung his hammock in the top of tall trees. He was frequently awakened by inquisitive monkeys and often saw lions prowling about beneath him.

More Men Than Women Looked Into Public Mirror

Men showed greater vanity than women, at a public mirror chosen for a survey of impecunious primping. During an hour it had no difficulty in being stopped for "repairs" by 17 women stopped for looking glass in Memphis, Tenn.

Most of the men, the survey showed, were "hat pullers-down" and "tie-tighteners," through a couple of "teeth cleaners" were noted.

Thirty-year-old Lemuel Elmer, a victim of spinal meningitis, never has walked a step, but he moves around in a vehicle of his own design. It is a three-wheeler, built close to the ground, which he propels by pushing and pulling the steering wheel. Equipped with a brake, the vehicle can attain a speed of 15 miles an hour.

KING AND GUARDS IN GREAT MILITARY PARADE

His Majesty the King, as Colonel-in-Chief of the Brigade of Guards, presented new colours to six battalions in Hyde Park. In the picture the King (left) is leaving the Royal Box, in which may be seen Queen Mary and other members of the Royal Family, for the presentation ceremony. Following this ceremony he led the Brigade of Guards from the Park to Buckingham Palace, and it was during this parade that a man was arrested for apparently attempting to endanger the life of His Majesty.

Growing Grass Seed

Relatively Little Seed Is Grown In

Each year a large acreage is sown to grass in the prairie provinces, yet relatively little of the seed used is produced by the farmer sowing the seed. He grows his own seed grain, yet not his grass seed! It can be sown easily and has two distinct advantages. First—no new weeds are introduced onto the farm, and second—it eliminates cash expenditure for seed.

More care is required when growing grass for seed purposes than when growing it for hay, if a satisfactory product is to be produced. To begin with, clean seed and clean land are imperative, otherwise the labour and time involved in attempting to clean both the standing crop and the threshed seed will be so great that little or no profit is derived from the seed.

The original seed should be of the highest grade. Here cleanliness is more important than germinability. Only a small quantity of seed is needed for a start as it can be increased rapidly. At the Brandon Experimental Farm, from one pound of Sudan grass seed, sown in rows, over 100 pounds of seed were harvested. It pays to start with the best seed obtainable.

It would be folly to sow clean seed on weedy land for not only do the weeds interfere with the growth of the grass but it is difficult and often impossible to separate weed seeds from grass seeds with the fanning machine. For this reason, clean summer-fallow land is recommended.

While the seed bank may be sown broadcast, in close drills or in rows, a 3 to 4 feet apart, the row sowing has much in its favour. This method of seeding requires less seed for sowing and permits intertillage, therefore affording a better opportunity to remove weeds and other plants which may be in or between the rows. It is easier to remove weed plants from the crop than weed seeds from the threshed material.

Installation Cost Lower And Thousands Apply For Service

A world apart from Ireland exist in the strange islands that line the coast from the Emerald Isle, says W. P. McGrath, of the Anchor Line. A new tri-weekly boat service is now in operation from the mainland. Tolly Island is an ancient stronghold of the Pomerians, a legendary race of gigantic people, whose chiefs existed in the 12th century B.C. The island lies over nine miles long and one mile wide. The inhabitants are highly civilized and speak the Irish language and live up to laws interpreted by their ancestors. "Queen," the island fishermen have no equal in any part of the world. They are six feet tall, have handsome and intelligent features with dark complexion of a Spanish cast. In the days of the great St. Columbkille, Tolly Island was selected as a site of churches and tradition tells how Allidun, son of Balcan, set a ferocious dog at the saint and the latter having overcome the beast, commanded that no dog should ever again be introduced to the island. To this day there are no dogs, cats, rats or even frogs in the tiny kingdom. The "Queen" of the island, Mary O'Hearghy, recently passed away and her throne passed to the nearest relative. The island now boasts of 21 species of birds, 31 kinds of fish and 41 types of plants, but no reptile of any kind.

Found Silver Dollars Hoard

Pickens may come home to roost, but silver dollars don't come back to banks. At least that was what the McCormick Manufacturing Company of London, Ont., discovered when it decided to pay employees with all-year dollars for the second time in a month. The bank had not received back enough of the coins to meet the payroll. An entirely new set of silver dollars had to be obtained.

Among the dogs brought to the annual meeting of the Canine Defense League in London was one wearing gold-rimmed glasses.

A Good Memory

Remember Pigeon Holes Into Which Ideas Are Sorted

A good memory is a useful memory, and a useful memory depends on a useful mind. We must readily recall together incidents which were connected together in the past. That is why the garulous gossip recalls all the irrelevant details connected with her story. That is why a knot in the handkerchief is sometimes a useful aid to memory. The sight of the knot recalls the thought we were impressing on our mind when we made it. We can often recover a lost fact by letting our mind go quietly through the various threads of the day till the right link is reached which brings with it the forgotten matter.

Some minds are like a drawer into which all sorts of articles have been thrown higgledy-piggledy. When we try to remember, the important and the trivial come out together, the things we need and the details we might as well forget. Often the essential information lies hidden somewhere at the bottom of the drawer beneath an untidy heap of trifles. There is no system in such a mind. Ideas are lost there because they happened to occur together.

A good memory, on the other hand, can be compared with a series of have been sorted. When we come across a new idea, it is immediately sorted into its proper pigeon hole, and so built up in our minds properly arranged systems of ideas. An orderly mind is a sign of observation and thinking, and the right associations between ideas, and they will come when you need them.

The habit of observation and thinking is a sign of intelligence, and the right associations between ideas, and they will come when you need them.

Diatribe For Felines

Fervency Of The House, Cat Banned From Lack Of

The reluctance to obey—all it pervades if you will—is responsible for the common lack of appreciation of the cat. His disregard of us and our wishes is disagreeably unflattering. The trouble is that we human beings are so vain that we look upon the habits of any domestic animal (of course, the cat is not truly domesticated) as being specially deplorable for our benefit.

The dog or monkey which will learn mechanical tricks for the reward of a pat on the head or a piece of sugar is acclaimed for his skill. And this ability to understand and obey is applauded as a sign of intelligence. The cat, on the other hand, applies his skill and intelligence to his own purpose.

Because I think that intelligence is something more than the ability to understand, and to obey, I often am disappointed in the animal world. An animal's ability to reason and act for itself in any situation, without human interference.

Judged by this standard, the cat has much to distinguish. If there is an opportunity in the animal world it is the cat. He is independent and resourceful; and innumerable stories have been told by such expert observers as the late W. H. Hudson which confirm the view that the cat is a highly intelligent animal.

The extent of the cat's intelligence can only be gauged, in my opinion, by close observation allied to a peculiar sympathy with the cat's character. That is where the scientist goes wrong. A detached and objective attitude towards cats is likely to yield very misleading results.—London Spectator.

A Lesson In Courtesy

The Duke of Connaught, 65 years old, set an example for punctilious courtesy at the Trooping the Colour. He was the first member of the Royal family to arrive at the Horse Guards, says the London columnist, and was about to take his seat when he learned that Queen Mary had not yet arrived. "Then I must wait for Her Majesty," he said, and stood in the hot sun until the Queen appeared. "I have been here for a long time," he said, "but I have not seen the Queen." "I have been here for a long time," he said, "but I have not seen the Queen." "I have been here for a long time," he said, "but I have not seen the Queen."

Hardly Possible

American tourists have been reported shocked about Canadian weather, but this one was certainly confused about distances. A man from Georgia drove into a gasoline station at Gabrielle, Ontario, demanding gas. He explained he had to be in Winnipeg by night.

Stamp-collecting has a greater following than any other hobby.

Milk Pasteurization

Many Dangerous Diseases May Be Curbed In Raw Milk

Increased consumption of properly pasteurized milk, the Canadian Health Minister declared today, would mean greater health for the nation's people. Hon. C. G. Power, M.C., Minister of Pensions and National Health, declared this.

Major Power expressed the hope that sentiment in favor of nationwide pasteurization of milk supply would continue to grow in Canada, and it is hoped that legislation will be adopted to make pasteurization compulsory in more and more communities as public opinion crystallized sufficiently to justify such a step.

"While milk is one of the best-balanced foods known to man, the dangers which may lurk in unpasteurized milk are well known to the medical profession," the Minister declared. "Many dangerous diseases may be carried in raw milk. In order to guard against this hazard, the milk should always be pasteurized, especially when it is to be given to children."

"Pasteurization will kill millions of germs and render milk perfectly safe without in any way spoiling its flavor or reducing its food value," the Minister of Health went on. "I am informed that in one of Canada's foremost hospitals for children, the milk which has been fed to the young patients for years past has been not only pasteurized but actually boiled to increase its digestibility. This would certainly never be done if heating deteriorated the food value of milk. In pasteurization the heat used is only 145 degrees F.—much less than boiling—so it is evident that the milk is not spoiled. Spilt milk as a food, as is sometimes ignorantly argued."

Major Power spoke favorably of efforts being made in Canada by provincial and municipal departments of health and voluntary agencies to endeavor to give the truth concerning the value of pasteurization. He said his department was primarily in sympathy with this.

"In many Canadian communities, the sale of raw milk is not yet been made compulsory. It is possible to get pasteurized milk. Major Power remarked: "I should always endeavor to get pasteurized milk in preference to raw milk, if the former is to be had. If it is not obtainable, however, raw milk is pasteurized at home by a very simple process, and every Canadian mother should endeavor to give them this easy but safe and sure protection against the many diseases which may be conveyed by raw milk."

New Kind Of Fodder

Method Of Converting Low-Grade Crops Into Palatable Feed

Science has offered the drought-stricken states a new method of converting low-grade crops into superior fodder. The new method is being tested at Cornell University. It has been tried out in 3,000 acres. It was developed by Dr. J. K. Wilson, professor of bacteriology in the department of agronomy.

The announcement says the acid can be added in a cost of 50¢ to 75¢ cent per acre. Even the most burnt out crops in the high protein class, it is declared, can be preserved so they will furnish an excellent green fodder.

Grass cuttings only a few inches high, too small in most cases for horses, have been converted into a palatable and highly nutritive food. The "high protein" crops particularly responsive to the new treatment include alfalfa, red or clover, sweet clover and soy beans.

"The addition of acid to the preservation of foods," says a report by Professor Wilson, has been practiced for a long time. Bactericidal acids and alkalis are good preservatives. Therefore, why not add acids if it is suspected that a sufficient quantity of bacteria is present in the food to prevent its being eaten spontaneously?

First Visit To Britain

Maharajah Of Mysore Making Unofficial Trip To London

The Maharajah of Mysore, whose fortune is estimated at £60,000,000 ($400,000,000) and who neither smokes, drinks nor eats meat, is visiting London.

A room in the Indian prince's hotel was prepared as a temple for the worship of the Maharajah's goddess, Chamundamma. A small golden figure of the goddess had been placed in the room, and priests accompanying the Maharajah will perform daily rites.

This is the Maharajah's first visit to Great Britain, and, indeed, his first departure from his own kingdom since his accession at the age of 31 in 1905.

His visit is unofficial, but he is almost certainly will be received by the King who visited him in 1922 as Prince of Wales. At that time the Maharajah beat the Prince at equine.

The Maharajah was greeted at the station by representatives of the government and of the India office. He was accompanied by a retinue of 100. After a short trip to the hotel, the party will return to India in September.

Should Hold Seed Wheat

Alberta Farmers Warned Against Excess Marketing Across The Border

Alberta farmers were warned by Hon. W. N. Chant, minister of agriculture, against the excess marketing of seed wheat across the international border because the lure of premium prices there.

He also advised farmers in sections of the province where there might be a feed shortage to conserve their supplies as much as possible.

"It has come to the notice of this department that wheat is being marketed by truck across the border where the premium has reached substantial amounts," said Mr. Chant. "It has been uncovered on one of the dry areas to retain sufficient grain for seed as the policy for the coming season will not permit the distribution of relief seed grain in cases where farmers have threshed grain that is suitable for seed," he added.

New Ceramic Process

One Of The Few Advances Made In This Art In 3,000 Years

A new type of porcelain, its surface done by "nut frost," one of the few advances in 3,000 years of the ceramic art, was announced at the color conference at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The "nut frost" is real. It is metallic, formed when metals freeze at temperatures around 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit. The metallic frost has all the patterns of frost on the window pane, and can have all the colors of the rainbow.

The metallic frost is lustreous, its surface smooth, unlike the frost on winter windows, the metallic frost can have crystals of any size. It resembles pictures of flowers painted in metal.

The new ceramic was developed at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in the laboratory of Professor F. H. Norton, who described it to the conference. It grew out of new methods of controlling precisely one of the four standard processes of the ceramic art.

This old process produces color by formation of crystals just under the surface glass. The substances which make the crystals, Professor Norton explained, may not themselves possess any color. The shape of the crystals and the shape of the surface, then, combine to absorb part of the light, leaving the rest to be reflected as brilliant color.

South Africa Takes Census

Used Old Method Of Cutting Notches On Sticks

The old unimproved method of taking by means of cutting notches on sticks was one of the unusual features in the general census of South Africa, held recently.

Heads of families in Zululand were instructed to cut notches in the nearest drying plank (these tanks are used for the eradication of ticks) in the shape of a cross, the number of notches corresponding to the number of males and on the other to the number of females in the family.

This method of counting has been in use for years with new natives who desire a check on the number of days they work for a white employer.

For some months, unknown to the thousands passing along the Thames Embankment, workmen have been busy behind a wooden screen under the Water Clock Arch, erecting a memorial to King George V. The monument, designed by Sir Edwin Cooper, was commissioned by the Port of London Authority. It is to commemorate the name "King George" which was given to the stretch of the Thames between London and Westminster Bridges, on the occasion of King George's Silver Jubilee. Lady Ritchie unveiled the memorial, and we see her above with Lord Ritchie standing on the deck of a launch after the unveiling ceremony.

Long Arctic Flight

Soviet Pilots Cover 3,555 Miles

Without A Stop

A long Arctic flight by Soviet pilots was hailed in the official press as "an accomplishment which will confound our enemies."

Macrow newspapers described the plane trip of Pilots Chelishoff and Radoloff as one of the most difficult ever made.

The flyers, accompanied by Navigator Radoloff, spent 54 hours and 20 minutes in the air and landed near Nicolaievsk, Siberia, after covering 3,555 miles without a stop.

Their plane, it was disclosed by the commissariat for heavy industry, which sponsored the trial, was brought to earth when they were threatened by head winds and a gasoline shortage.

On recommendation of high Soviet officials, the three men participating in the flight are to be awarded the title of "heroes."

In recognition of their accomplishment the flyers also will receive cash grants from the government.

Being Foolishly Kind

Motorists Who Pick Up Hitch Hikers Invite Trouble

Two pairs of motor tourists from the United States have been robbed in Quebec by a pair of hitch-hikers, a young man and woman who threatened with a gun those who picked them up as they tramped towards the border.

The danger of stopping for such itinerants of the highways has been impressed upon motorists many times. To stop at the request of a person of the pointed thumb is to invite trouble. In the great majority of cases, of course, the wayfarer is an inoffensive person who does not propose to let his lack of means interfere with his ambition to see the world. But many instances have shown that there are ugly customers as well in this army that moves on other people's wheels, and drivers of reasonable caution do not take chances.

The driver asked to pick up a strange man should stop to consider whether he would invite that individual to sleep the night at his house in complete ignorance of the itinerant's habits, background, history—Ottawa Journal.

Test Flights Delayed

Trips Over North Atlantic Route Not Likely This Year

Test flights on the North Atlantic route between Great Britain, Newfoundland and Canada will not be made this year, it was learned at Ottawa. Hearnemann was the one factor causing delay.

A sub-imperial conference at Ottawa last December decided that flights should be flown in April on a route between Canada and England. A large airport and seaplane harbor already had been constructed at St. John's, N.B., in anticipation of transatlantic service and was ready this year on another at Gander.

Imperial Airways ordered a number of "composite" flying boats, but the design of the machine, carrying 100 passengers and 100 tons of freight, is being delayed by the air with heavy loads of mail.

One of these machines has been test-flown. It is reputed to have a cruising speed of about 200 miles an hour.

Self-Sufficiency Program

Russia Now Intends To Buy Less And Sell More

Russia henceforth is going to buy less and borrow less, sell more and save more—towards the goal of self-sufficiency.

Furthermore, Foreign Trade Commissar Archibald Rosenberg told the conference for foreign trade that it won't be necessary to send a Soviet salesman abroad—the buyers are flocking to Moscow.

The reason for the self-sufficiency program, it was asserted, is due to the present period of increasing military dangers, the necessity to prepare for defence and the necessity of increasing gold reserves is apparent.

Importation of imports will be continued and intensified during the third and current five-year plan by the Soviet Union, said a spokesman for Rosenberg said. He added: "We hope to get along almost without imports."

High Salaries

Many Big Industrialists In United States Receive Huge Pay

The Toronto Star cites five big industrial men in the United States with salaries of $350,000 per year and over, and nineteen others with salaries of over $100,000 per year. In all cases, the high pay is the result of the employment of large numbers of other people with dependent families.

LOYALTY in the pinches

WHEN the land is flowing with milk and honey, it is easy to have a host of friends. But when evil days come and the winds of controversy sweep blithely over the land, the chaff is scattered and only the real kernels of friendship are left. Friends may argue with you. They may laugh at you or tell you what they think of you, but they are there when you need them, ready with a helping hand when the going is rough. They are loyal.

It is heartening to discover that loyalty is not the scattered virtue of a few but a widespread deep-rooted growth springing from the very hearts of the people. It is through good years and bad, come fine weather or foul. They may disagree with us sometimes, they may question our opinions, they may on occasion turn our ears with scathing comments, but still they are our readers and our friends.

THEY know that we are as staunchly for Alberta and the common good as they are. They know that even if they disagree with our editorial, they will always find the whole unbiased truth in our news columns, the reports exactly as we receive them from reliable sources, accurate and uncolored.

We acknowledge with grateful appreciation the confidence that our readers have reposed in us and here renew our pledge to keep faith in continuing to give them a free untrammeled news service. Truth must prevail—and the independent newspapers of Southern Alberta will follow it courageously wherever it is found.
